Delivering Information to Chinese Colleagues

We can now deliver your events, news releases, or any other ceramic art-related information to China through the Chinese version of our website. In 2007, I created a Chinese version of Chinese Ceramic Art Council USA, which is mainly for delivering information to our Chinese colleagues in the ceramic art field. I have also posted the Chinese version of NCECA, (the National Council on Education for the Ceramic Art), IAC, (International Academy of Ceramics), and a lot of other related information online, plus many of my essays on the website to attract more web visitors. We will not charge any money for using these sites; we only want to invite you to build the bridge together with us towards China, the country with the largest population in the world. The web address of our Chinese version is www.US- ChineseClayArt.com

Many of the artists went to the opening of the teapot show in NCECA and it was an excellent show! I would like to give thanks to Mr. French Thompson at the French Designer Jeweler Gallery and to the artists,
