Porcelain Sunflower Seeds for Pave a Street

I have been working on my projects in Jingdezhen for over one year now. During my time in Jingdezhen, I gave a lecture in Jingdezhen Ceramic Institute on May 20th. Also, I have seen a lot of people working for Ai Weiwei's new project - painting tons of black strips on life-size porcelain sunflower seeds. A local girl told me that Ai Weiwei is going to ship all of the sunflower seeds to Germany to pave a street. What a great idea!

An Exciting New Exhibition Opportunity for Clay and Glass Artists

The ACGA Clay & Glass National Juried Competition will take place January 22 - March 4, 2011 very near to Los Angeles at the City of Brea Art Gallery. It will be a gallery installation showcasing a broad range of handmade ceramic and glass artwork from across the United States.

The juror is Jo Lauria, a nationally recognized curator, historian and author specializing in contemporary crafts and decorative objects. She is the recent author of Craft in America: Celebrating Two Centuries of Artists and Objects, which is a companion book to the PBS series and traveling exhibition of the same name.

The competition is open to all forms of handmade clay and glass: functional, decorative and sculptural. The deadline for submission is October 30th. Entry fees are $15 for one piece, $25 for two, and $30 for three. Awards will be given. Attached is a copy of the prospectus, or go to www.acga.net and scroll to the right side of the homepage for a link.

The Association of Clay and Glass Artists of California (ACGA) is a non-profit membership organization begun in 1945. It is dedicated to establishing and maintaining high standards of craftsmanship and design in clay and glass. To learn more about the site of the exhibition visit www.breagallery.com.
